Mary Anne Kluth

A Volcano Millions of Years Ago

Mary Anne Kluth is playing god. She's created a fantastic world made up of forests, volcanoes, and psychedelic rocks at her latest exhibit, "Visitor Center," at Frey Norris Gallery.

Creating a sort of natural history museum as a way of retelling her father's geologic findings, the exhibit includes infographics, pamphlets, and giveaway badges.

The show is endearing, ironic, and funny -- check out Magnitudes of Rocks, or How

Iceland a Raindrop of Lava

We just love Iceland a Raindrop of Lava, a geological spectacle with a surrealistic touch. Bringing a composite volcano to life, Kluth heightens the already awesome happening by coloring the rock with loud shades of red, orange, and yellow.

Wait! There's more!
